Dominion PlayDowns Wednesday and Friday

On Wednesday and Friday evening next week, the Raymond Opera House will be the scene of the Dominion play-downs between the Vancouver "Province" team, and the Raymond Union Jacks, in the best two of three games. If a third game is necessary, it will be played Saturday night, and the winners of this series will go straight on to Winnipeg for the next games, as the Regina Capitals have dropped out of the picture because of some irregularity in the lineup.

Seats have been reserved, and the price for these has been set at 60 cents each, with rush seats at 50 cents. The Vancouver boys are touted as a real bunch of basket tossers, and whoever wins, the series it is apt to be interesting and well worth the price asked for admission. Raymond has always been noted for its good support of its basketball teams, so be on hand next week, and cheer the Jacks on to a Dominion title. It would be nice wouldn't it.

KIDDIES PLEASE AUDIENCE

Delightful, entertaining, interesting, were some of the expressions heard following the performance last week end, by the Winnipeg kiddies appearing here Friday and Saturday afternoon.

It would be useless to enumerate each individual performer, and each number. The fact that they were so young, and so talented, was the outstanding fact of the performance. Henry Elsasser on the Piano. Accordion, Gracie Chambers in her acrobatic and contortionist stunts, little Baby Joyce in her dancing and singing, the twins the future Harry, Lauder, and all the rest, and the accompanist, who played without music for all the numbers were performers of real merit, and pleased the audience from start to finish.

The management of the Capitol deserves commendation for bringing this troupe in, and for keeping the price of the double program down to such a moderate charge.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

J. S. IRISH, EDITOR OF THE GUERNSEY (CHANNEL ISLANDS) EVENING PRESS, SAYS:

America certainly has made advertising a fine art! That was my impression on tuning in WTIC (Hartford, Conn.) one recent evening. What I heard was quite intriguing. The speaker opened by reminding hearers that the day was an anniversary (birth or death, I forget which) of Mr. Hansom, the inventor of the now defunct hansom cab. He described the peculiarities of the vehicle and went on to tell something of the history of road traction from the basket chairs of ancient Persia to modern vehicles. There was just a suggestion of advertising at the end. Neatly worked in, it suggested the advantages of insuring motor cars (probably he said 'automobiles') with a certain company. Very clever, very artistic, very effective! That method is, of course not unknown to print.

"But I feel convinced that Radio, no matter how smart, will never out newspaper advertising. Wireless is so inherently impotent that its advocacy falls for short in effectiveness of that of the newspaper. The use of the columns of the newspaper as the best of all advertising mediums is the often expressed opinion of lead

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET-BALL TOURNAMENT

Considerable interest was manifested in the post-season High School Basketball tournament held here Tuesday and Wednesday night, and some good games were witnessed by the fans, despite the fact that some of the teams have been laying off since the schedule closed some two or three weeks ago.

The Lethbridge Collegiate seemed to be in the best condition of any probably due to the fact that they have just completed a championship series in which they won the Provincial High School crown.

Tuesday night the Collegiate nosed out Magrath by the narrow margin of 28-30, while Cardston lost to Solon Low's Comets with a 32-21 total.

On Wednesday night, Magrath and Cardston played the first game with a 29-28 score in favor of Cardston and in the game between Collegiate and Raymond, the score was 26-24 in favor of Collegiate.

Viney and Zemp had the whistles for the first night's games.

A good crowd of fans witnessed the games, and were well satisfied with the brand of ball dished up by these four teams, who have fought closely all the winter to see who would have the upper hand. Another year should see some real basketball ball, and some real competition with these teams on the floor.

The teams and players are as follows:

MAGRATH—Don Harker, Ralph Harker, Lee Harker, Dean Bennett, Lee Dickson, Martin Miller, Dale Todner, Meade Wood, Robert Bourne, Heber Pawsey.

COLLEGIATE—Simmons, Walton, Anderson, Macintosh, Bishop, Neilson, Hunt, Jensen, Wood, Short, Halmerst.

CARDSTON—W. Layton, Leishman, Cahoon, Pitcher, D. Layton, Spencer, Sloan, Steed and Card.

RAYMOND—Meeks, King, Redd, Fairbanks, Piegrass, Shaw, Nalder and Heggie.

The best of feelings prevailed amongst the boys, and they all enjoyed having another tilt with each other after the enjoyable meetings of the winter months.

Following the play, Grand Wooley, head of the A.A.B.A. presented the Raymond Jacks with the Alberta title trophy while George Manson, southern organizer, made a similar presentation to the title-holding C. I. quint. Applause greeted the presentations.

ing advertisers, and I have had much local evidence in support of this theory. I remember a chat with a dentist friend at his establishment on one of our suburban roads. Another dentist had taken an office in a main street of St. Peter Port which my friend thought a waste of money. "If you are in a back alley," he said, "and have what people want, they will surely come to you IF YOU LET THEM KNOW THROUGH THE NEWSPAPER."

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dahl spent the week-end in Cardston with relatives, returning home after the Temple session Monday evening.

According to reports the big land deal for property south of town, went thru this week, and a number of our ridge farmers will now be looking for new locations, and a new Hutterite colony will be moving onto the farms.

Jacks Defeat Liberals To Win Provincial Crown

And it was just a repetition of their previous games, a fight from start to finish, with the outcome in doubt all the way when the Jacks and the Liberals met in Cardston last Friday night to decide the Alberta Senior Basketball championship. In fact it required five minutes of overtime play to settle the question as full time found the score tied at 36 all.

Kirkham, O'Brien and Fairbanks were the big guns of the evening, snaring 14, 13 and 11 points each, while Keel, Dunlop and Sinclair were the high scorers of the Lethbridge quint getting 9 points each. It was a shot by Bobby Dunlop, running guard of the Lethbridge team that forced the game into overtime, a shot that bulged the hemp just a few seconds before the final whistle.

All through the game the score saw-sawed back and forth, and at half way through the first half the score was 13-6 for Raymond, and it looked like an easy victory for the Jacks. The Liberals called time out, and when play resumed they turned on the steam and the first half ended 15-16 for the Lethbridge boys.

TEMPLE EXCURSION WELL ATTENDED

Despite the inclemency of the weather, and the fact that many who were prepared to go, found it impossible to do so, the Taylor Stake Temple Day on Monday was well attended, there being about 250 endowments in the day, five sessions being held.

In the early morning there was a real north blizzard in progress in Cardston, the snow coming on the wings of a stiff wind hitting one in the face just like having someone throw sand at you. When the Magrath wards arrived about 50

This was the only time the Liberals shot into the lead, but they were dangerously close all the way, and after the Jacks had piled up a four point lead, and time was nearly up, they commenced stalling, only to have Dunlop snare a brace of field baskets, to force the game into overtime, for the first time this season.

In the overtime period, Nilsson and O'Brien each counted a foul shot, Dick got a field basket and Reed got two of them to make the total score for the Jacks 44, and in the overtime Sinclair made a field shot, and Keel and Howard each made a foul shot good, to make the Liberals score 40. When the final whistle went the fans and players all breathed easier as it had been a strenuous forty minutes.

FARMERS ATTENTION

At the Board of Trade Meeting Monday night, H. L. Seaman will speak on the Grass-hopper question. Be at the Town Hall at 8:15 p.m.

Spring seems to be here and boxes and cans of garden seeds are decorating window ledges in many homes. Planting will be in progress before very long now.

Work on the land will commence right away now, and it will not be long until the tillage and seeding machinery will be getting the crop into the ground.

The first game of the Intermediate Basketball playdown for Alberta honors will be played in the Opera House Saturday night, when the Intermediate Moose Domers of Calgary met the Raymond Idlers.

Luckily none of the occupants of the car were injured. "Mac" says it was a sheep when we hit it, but mutton when we got the car stopped. The car was driven into Lethbridge on its own power, and left there for repairs.

Returning from Medicine Hat last Friday with the Idlers Basketball team, L. McPhee met a band of sheep on the road, hitting one, and turning his car over, breaking the windshield, two windows, and other dents and bruises, amounting to considerable expense.

Devar King and Wayne Hawk our two finalists in the Boxing Eliminations in Calgary, were both defeated in their bouts. Devar was outpointed by his opponent and Wayne received a haymaker during the bout which put him out for the count. Congratulations boys, and better luck next time.

The opening of the new office and show room of the Canadian Utilities on Tuesday was the centre of interest, and numerous people were in there all day looking over the varied assortment of electrical appliances, accessories, and bigger items of interest.

Newly finished, and with all new shiny goods, the store looked nice and bright, and a good staff was on hand to welcome the visitors and answer the questions asked regarding the many things on the floor.

A General Electric representative was there from Calgary, being especially interested in the G. E. stove and refrigerator.

That many people were there to buy as well as to look was evidenced by the fact that two washers were sold, and potential orders taken for a refrigerator or two, during the first day of business.

It is likely that the store and the service it affords will be a real asset to the town and district, and result in the introduction of many labor saving gadgets in the homes of the people.

If you have not been in to look around, you should go, as there are really many interesting things there for one to see and study.

IDLERS TAKE SECOND GAME 53 32

The Idlers took the second game of the southern Alberta playoffs from the Medicine Hat contenders by the score of 53-32, at the gas city last Thursday night, and earned the chance to meet the Calgary Intermediate Moose Domers for the Provincial title.

Again it was a case of experience and practice, against lack of experience and technique. Kirkham and Webster on the front end were unbeatable and accounted for 35 of the 53 points. Galbraith, Woolley and VanOrman were the other Raymond players.

The flurry of snow which fell here for awhile Monday morning, was a real blizzard in Cardston, and for about twelve hours was pounding away from the north, making a high ceiling feel very nice. The streets and roads from Spring Coulee to Cardston were very wet and sloppy Monday evening, when the people who attended the Temple Excursion returned home.

PLENTY OF FEED A BIG THING

We have spent so much about the benefits of the sugar factory and the beet industry to Raymond and immediate district, that we have been called crazy, and a lot of other nice names.

At the same time, the fact is driven home frequently that because of this industry, we really do not appreciate just how well off we really are and what it does mean to us. Aside from the cash it puts into circulation, the work it affords, and the guaranteed return from the summer work each year, the by-products alone would almost be worth enough to justify it, and would certainly make a big difference in our livestock problem each year if we did not have them.

If you doubt what we say, take a drive into the country south and west of here, and see some of the bone racks that we call livestock. With spring practically here, and work on the land right around the corner, we saw a number of work horses early this week, that would do exceptionally well to do even a part of a day's work in the field, and cattle so thin, that a person could push them over with one hand. There will not only be the delay that these poor horses will cause in spring work, but there will be the added expense of getting them back into shape so that they can do a day's work, which will cost as much or more than it would cost to feed them while the work was going on. And such poor cattle. They take nearly all they can get in the way of nourishment to live on, and owners are stripping six, seven or eight cows, where three fat cows well fed would give just as much milk, and even more cream.

And, while our farmers are getting their bonuses to start spring work with, and getting their beet seed, fertilizer, etc., to plant their cash crop, farmers in many other districts are wondering just which way to turn to even start to do something.

We get a great many laughs about pulp, beetalasses, and other feed by-products, but we are sure that if we had to do without them we would soon be wanting them back again, for they make a world of difference in our feed situation each year.

There may be those who don't feel these products, but we will bet that if they don't they do feed good alfalfa or sweet clover hay, and this would not be so plentiful nor so cheap, were it not for the beet industry, and the hay crop working into the rotation.

Farmers and ranchers in the south-west district have used a great deal of pulp and beetalasses during the past winter, but all over that area, hay has been practically unknown, and straw has been scarce, so that about all the pulp has accomplished has been to keep the stock alive but not fat like the majority of the stock is in these parts. If you don't believe us, take a trip, and size the situation up generally.

WE ARE TO SMUG

(Country Life in B.C.)

Canada needs an awakening. This country is altogether too snug and self-satisfied in its internal policies. Its leaders are content to let Great Britain operate a common-sense marketing system for three years. South Africa for seven years and New Zealand for nine years. Now, at long last, they are beginning to see dimly that world conditions have changed so radically that they are away behind the procession and that they have kept their people back with them. Even the United States with its Agricultural Adjustment Administration and its N.R.A. is a year ahead. Yet in this vigorous northern clime, from the proletariat up to the prime minister, we are supposed to say to ourselves—to be roaring and tearing at the head of the parade of progress.

ANOTHER ANGLE OF THE BUY-AT-HOME QUESTION

We clipped the following from an exchange: "A farmer who was carrying a parcel from a city mail order house was accosted by a local merchant. 'Why didn't you buy those goods from me? I could have saved the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and build up this locality.' With characteristic frankness, the farmer asked, 'Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise I read it, and didn't know you had the goods I have here. Nor do I ever see your name in the paper inviting anyone to come to your store.'"

What About Social Credit in Canada?

the house is finished Joe perhaps needs the money and offers to sell us the house. We pay him the five thousand dollars that he gave us for building it. In other words we got the house for working for it, although I guess we should say we paid five thousand dollars for it.

Now Joe can repay his loan and he does so. The amount is cancelled as you will remember this is what happens to money when a loan is repaid. So neither Joe, nor the banker, nor either of us have the money.
Of course it isn't likely that Joe would do business in this way but I wanted you to be clear that the trouble in our system does not arise out of what we call 'profit.'

NUMBER 8.

W. "To give a simple illustration. Think of a tank with two pipes leading from it, and a continuous flow of water through the pipes. The rate of flow expression means that it is a physical impossibility for the quantity passing through one pipe in a given period to equal the quantity passing through both pipes in that period.

In the case of the factory we are considering it as a series process where an article undergoes a different operation in several plants. You know that industry is financed largely by bank loans. At each stage of the process the money received in payment through the sale of goods is repaid to the banks and cancelled. So that this shortage of purchasing power can be demonstrated at any stage of the process. The greater part of income must be spent as received and they can only be spent on goods which are already for sale. It may be several weeks or months before the article (for which the purchasing power was distributed) makes its appearance on the market. In the meantime this purchasing power has been spent and cancelled. Consequently when the goods finally appear there is no way to purchase them except by the purchasing power distributed at each of the earlier stages of its manufacture will likely be spent and cancelled."

J. "But if this were true, our industrial system would have broken down long ago."

W. "You forget that I did not say that these goods cannot be sold. I said that they must be distributed by some other agency than that of consumer purchasing power, and that agency is bank loans forming, as Douglas says,

"a draft on purchasing power distributed for future production." But you know that in industry is continually breaking down. We are in the midst of one of these collapses right now, and there have been two ve major depressions in the last 100 years. The physical facts all support this analysis."

J. "Well I don't know what to say. I don't seem to grasp it very clearly yet."

W. "All right. Let us look at it this way. Suppose a business man wishes to erect a building and asks his banker for a loan.
The banker agrees to make an entry in his ledger and the man is now permitted to draw cheques up to the limit of 5000. the amount of the loan. (To simplify this illustration let us

W. "Well you and I possess the house. It has cost us $5-000. Suppose now that we decide to go into the fur business, curing and dressing skins for the market. Now our cost is going to include at least three items; (1) Wages, (2) Raw materials (3) Rent of factory, that is our house. Suppose now that we trap our animals and so we will say that our raw material cost nothing Now we can consider the rent of the house as an appropriation of an amount of money that will just equal replacement value of the house when it finally falls down or is no longer habitable. What do we call this item in orthodox cost accounting?"

J. "I should call it depreciation."

W. "Quite right. It is a reserve for replacement of plant.
Now, seeing that the public will be getting the finished product they should pay for the depreciation of the plant where the work is carried on.
There is no injustice in including this charge, is there?"

J. "Of course not. Every business has to set aside an amount for depreciation. It is necessary in order to make a charge of the complete cost. And being a cost the consumer must pay it."

W. "Yes, but if you see the implication. You are going to charge for depreciation and yet no one has got the money to pay that charge. If four fur-nurers came to the community and we borrow money from Smith to start up the business, besides paying wages we do not distribute purchasing power in any other way. Suppose that these men tried to buy our complete outfit it would be impossible for we should have to include in the price a small amount for depreciation charges.
I don't need to tell you it is not profit."

J. "I should say not, but you're quite right: they couldn't buy all our goods even if we priced them at cost and added not a cent for profit."

W. "You see OUR SYS-TEM CANNOT WORK WHILE WE FINANCE IT BY SUCH METHODS."

J. You know, Williams, that's very interesting. I think that we —

W. "Excuse me just a moment.
I want to finish this illustration about our fur business before we lose the connection."
